John is a former State Government Senior Environmental Health Officer with significant regulatory, enforcement and compliance experience. He draws on his experience across the public health, hospitality, infrastructure, construction and defence industries to confidently deliver engaging and interesting training.

Training experience

John has delivered formal and informal training in the public and private sector to participants from a diverse range of professional, cultural and educational backgrounds both in Australia and internationally.

Auditing experience

John has audited various industries including government, defence, heavy vehicle transport, oil and gas, construction, manufacturing, retail, hospitality and other service industries. He has significant experience undertaking conformance assessments, inspections and audits in the areas of quality management, environmental health, food and water handling and occupational hazards in Asia Pacific and North America. John has also conducted Quality, OHS, Environment and Food Safety internal/2nd party audits for small, medium and large organisations and has led numerous complex investigations into various breaches of public health legislation.

Fantastic course and fantastic delivery. John is a dynamic speaker who was able to keep even the 'drier' parts of the content interesting and engaging. Great use of varied learning styles. The pace was also good. John was brilliant at keeping the room focused and on topic.

— Sharon Marshall

John was an excellent teacher, engaging and well spoken. He kept everyone interested and made the course enjoyable.

— Tristan Tully

We had the most wonderful trainers (John and Tom) who were very knowledgeable on the subject, friendly, well presented and professional. The course materials provided were well put together and will be useful to refer back to. As a result of attending this course I feel much better equipped for future audits.

— Tammy Parsons
